Peter Told Cornelius About Jesus

ACTS 10

One day Peter went up to the housetop so he could pray. After a while, Peter fell asleep and had a strange dream.

Peter saw animals, snakes, and birds in the dream. A voice told Peter to eat. In the dream, Peter shouted “No!” Three times the voice told Peter to eat. When he woke up, Peter thought about the dream. He did not know what it meant.

Then some men came to Peter and told him he should go visit a man named Cornelius. “Cornelius loves God. He wants to hear what you have to say,” the men said.

So Peter went to Cornelius’ house. He saw many people there. Cornelius told Peter: “I often pray to God. He helped me know I should invite you to my house. And now you have come! We are ready to hear about Jesus.”

Then Peter understood the strange dream. God was teaching Peter that everything He made was good. God wanted Peter to talk to all people about Jesus, not just the people like Peter. Peter told Cornelius and his friends about Jesus. They all believed that Jesus is God’s Son.
